

PL 436 Geographic Information Systems (2)

This course aims to enable students to develop spatial analysis for urban studies. Also, the course aims at increasing the student's knowledge of the technical means and computer applications in building databases and urban centres of urban information systems within the institutions of urban planning organizations.